I have lived in the Williams district for the majority of my life and have strong links to the history of this community. I currently live on a farming property in Quindanning with my husband Warren and have been fortunate to have raised three daughters in the area. I am a Primary School teacher, having worked predominately at Williams Primary School during my 32-year career. Over the years I have been heavily involved in local groups, such as the Williams Netball and Repertory clubs. Williams is a vibrant community, that has the drive to progress, accommodating changes ahead, whilst preserving its historical landmarks and integrity. I have learned a considerable amount during my recent tenure on Council and look forward to the opportunity to continue representing the Williams community as Shire Councillor.
