Acknowledgements

The Shire of Williams acknowledges the input received from many individuals and groups within the community, which has been invaluable in the preparation of this Disability Access Inclusion Plan.

Australia's ratification of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with disabilities in 2008 reflects the Australian Government's commitment to promoting and supporting the equal and active participation by people with disability in economic and social life. Understanding the prevalence of disability in the Australian population, and the socio-economic characteristics and needs and unmet needs of people with disability, is important in informing policies, planning services, and removing barriers to participation. BACKGROUND

Shire of Williams

The Shire of Williams adopted its first Disability Services Plan in 1995, focusing on identifying and addressing access barriers within the community. Subsequent plans have built upon this foundation, with the current DAIP (2025-2030) being the fourth iteration.

The Disability Access and Inclusion Plan (DAIP 2025-2030) for the Shire of Williams outlines the Shire's commitment to ensuring equitable access and inclusion for people with all abilities. This plan aligns with legislative requirements and reflects the Shire's dedication to fostering an inclusive community.

People with disability in the Shire of Williams

The 2021 Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) Census, the Shire of Williams had a population of 1021 residents, with 33 individuals (approximately 3.23%) identifying as living with a disability.

The national average, which, as per the 2022 ABS Survey of Disability, Ageing and Carers, estimated that nearly one in four Australians (21.4%) reported living with a disability.

Despite the lower prevalence, the Shire of Williams acknowledges the importance of inclusivity and has implemented measures to support residents with disabilities. The Shire's Disability Access and Inclusion Plan (DAIP) 2025–2030 outlines strategies to enhance accessibility and participation for people with disabilities. These strategies include ensuring equal access to services and events, improving the accessibility of buildings and facilities, providing information in accessible formats, and promoting inclusive employment practices.

The Shire's commitment to these initiatives reflects its dedication to fostering an inclusive community where all residents, regardless of ability, have the opportunity to participate fully in community life.

Planning for better access

The Western Australia Disability Services Act 1993 requires all Local Governments to develop and implement a Disability Access and Inclusion Plan (DAIP) to ensure that people with disability have equal access to its facilities and services.

The Shire of Williams recognises that people with disability and their families and carers have the same rights as other people to access the services within the community. These rights are protected by both State and Commonwealth legislation which make it illegal to discriminate against people with a disability.

Public authorities in WA have been required to have a Disability Service Plan (DSP) since 1993, and local governments have made a great deal of progress to ensuring that their services, buildings and information are accessible to people with disability, their carers and families.

Other legislation that supports this access and inclusion requirements include the Western Australian Equal Opportunity Act (1984) and the Commonwealth Disability Discrimination Act 1992 (DDA), both of which make discrimination on the basis of a person's disability unlawful.

The Disability Services Act (1993) requires public authorities to develop and implement Disability Access and Inclusion Plans (DAIPs). The requirements of DAIPs build on those of DSPs, so that people with disability can access services provided by public authorities in WA in a way that facilitates increased independence, opportunities and inclusion within the community.

The Shire of Williams is committed to facilitating the inclusion of people with disability through the improvement of access to its information facilities and services. Towards this goal the Shire adopted its first Disability Service Plan (DSP) in 1995 to address the access barriers within the community.

Since the adoption of the initial DSP, the Shire has implemented many initiatives and made significant progress towards better access. Some of these are highlighted in Appendix 1 under the relevant key outcome headings of the 1995 DSP.

The Shire of Williams endorsed its first Disability Access and Inclusion Plan in 2007. The current revised Disability Access and Inclusion Plan for 2025 - 2030, is the 4th edition for the Shire of Williams.

ACCESS AND INCLUSION POLICY STATEMENT

The Shire of Williams is committed to ensuring that the community is accessible for and inclusive of people with disability, their families and carers.

The Shire of Williams interprets an accessible and inclusive community as one in which all Council functions, facilities and services (both in-house and contracted) are open, available and accessible to people with disability, providing them with the same opportunities, rights and responsibilities as other people in the community.

The Shire of Williams believes that people with disability, their families and carers who live in country areas should be supported to remain in the community of their choice.

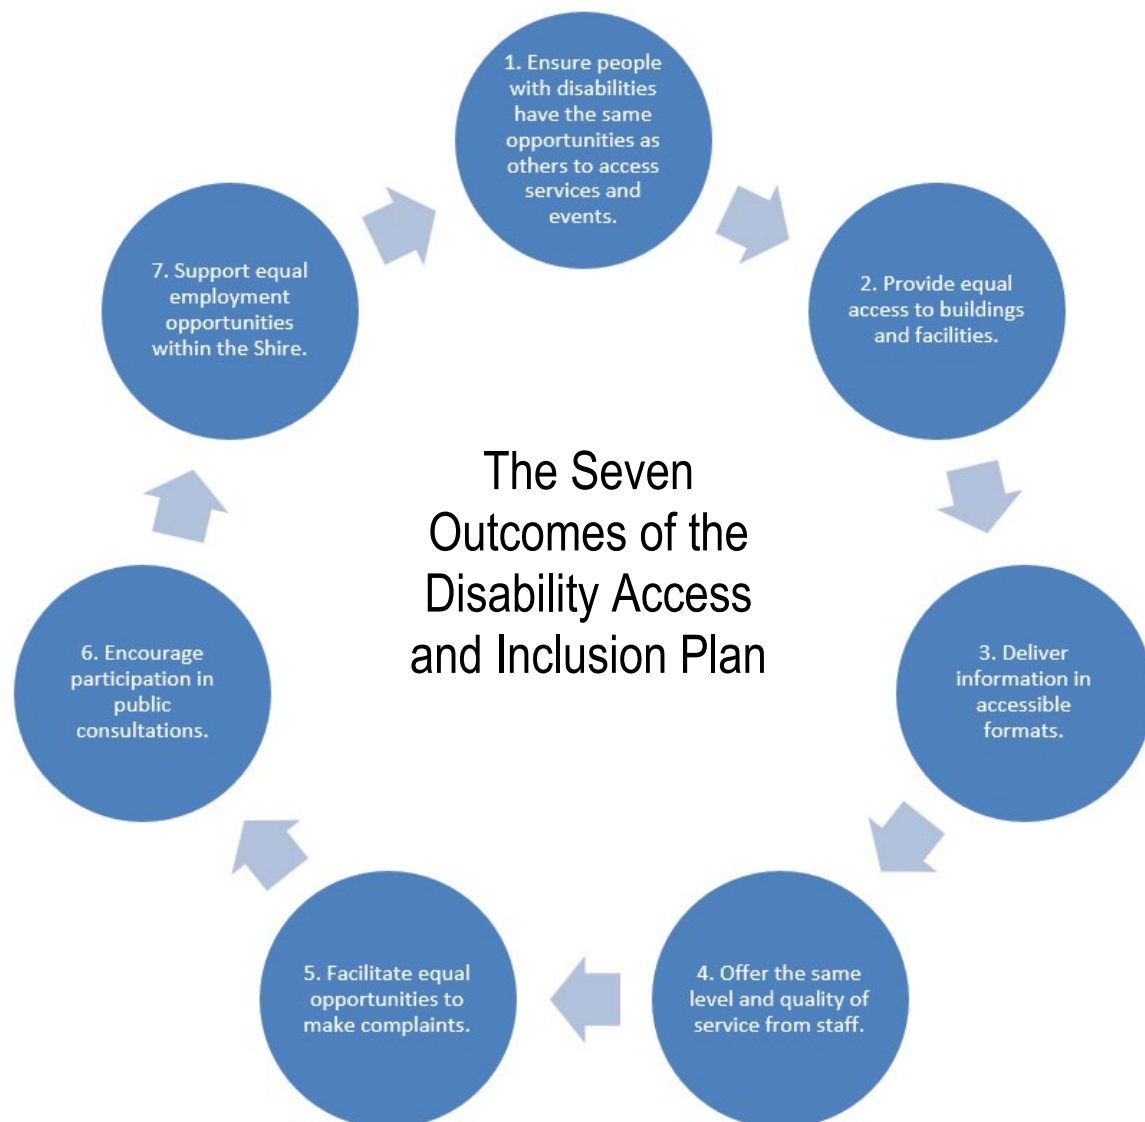

The Shire of Williams is committed to consulting with people with disability, their families and carers and where required disability organisations to ensure that barriers to access are addressed appropriately.

The Shire of Williams:

- recognises that people with disability are valued members of the community who make a variety of contributions to local social, economic and cultural life;
- believes that a community that recognises its diversity and supports the participation and inclusion of all of its members makes for a richer community life;
- believes that people with disability, their families and carers should be supported to remain in the community;
- is committed to consulting with people with disability, their families and carers and disability organisations in addressing barriers to access and inclusion;
- will ensure its agents and contractors work towards the desired outcomes in the DAIP;
- is committed to supporting local community groups and businesses to provide access and inclusion of people with disability; and
- is committed to achieving the seven desired outcomes of its DAIP.

The Seven Outcomes of DAIP

The Disability Access and Inclusion Plan (DAIP) 2025–2030 for the Shire of Williams outlines seven key outcomes to promote equitable access and inclusion for people with disabilities. These outcomes are designed to ensure that individuals with disabilities have the same opportunities as others to participate in all aspects of community life.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE DISABILITY ACCESS AND INCLUSION PLAN

Responsibility for the planning process

The Chief Executive Officer has responsibility to oversee the development, implementation, review and evaluation of the plan. The final plan is endorsed by Council and it is the responsibility of all employees to implement the relevant actions.

Community Consultation Process

The Disability Services Act Regulations (2004) set out the minimum consultation requirements for public authorities in relation to Disability Access and Inclusion Plans (DAIPs). Local Governments must call for submissions (either general or specific) by notice in a newspaper circulating in the Local Government area or on any website maintained by or on behalf of the Local Government. Other mechanisms may also be used.

During the review of the Shire of Williams Disability Access and Inclusion Plan, the Shire undertook the following consultation methods:

- The Local Paper –: Announcements were published in “The Williams” newspaper, informing the community about the DAIP review and inviting feedback.
- The Website: Information regarding the DAIP review was made available on the Shire’s official website (www.williams.wa.gov.au), providing details on how to participate in the consultation process.
- Social Media Engagement: The Shire utilised its Facebook page to reach a broader audience, sharing updates and encouraging community members to contribute their perspectives.
- Direct Submissions: Residents were encouraged to provide input through various means, including written submissions, emails, and telephone conversations with the Shire's Community Development Officer.

This multifaceted approach ensured that community members had accessible avenues to share their experiences and suggestions, contributing to a more inclusive and representative DAIP.

The Shire of Williams remains committed to ongoing consultation with people with disabilities, their families, carers, and relevant organizations to ensure that the DAIP remains responsive to community needs. Regular reviews and updates are conducted to assess progress and incorporate new feedback, reinforcing the Shire's dedication to fostering an inclusive environment for all residents.

Findings of the consultation

Community consultation resulted in no submissions being made.

As a result of the minimal responses, an in-house review was undertaken on the Shire's previous DAIP (2020-2025), noting areas of continued improvement as required to update to the current version taking the Shire forward.

Responsibility for implementing the DAIP

It is a requirement of the Disability Services Act (1993) that a public authority must take all practical measures to ensure that the DAIP is implemented by its officers, employees, agents and contractors.

Implementation of the DAIP is the responsibility of all areas of the Shire. Some actions in the DAIP Implementation Plan will apply to all areas of the Shire, whilst others will apply to a specific area. The Implementation Plan sets out who is responsible for each action.

Communicating the plan to staff and people with disability

In June 2025, copies of the draft DAIP were sent to all those who contributed to the planning process. In July 2025 the plan was finalised and formally endorsed by Council.

The community was informed through local media (Facebook and The Williams) that copies of the plan were available upon request and in alternative formats if required, including hard copy in standard and large print, electronic format, by email and on the Shire's website.

Review and evaluation mechanisms

The Disability Services Act (1993) requires that DAIPs be reviewed at least every five years. Whenever the DAIP is amended, a copy of the amended plan must be lodged with the Department of Communities. The Implementation Plan can be updated more frequently if desired.

Monitoring and Reviewing

The employee with responsibility for the DAIP will analyse progress in implementing the DAIP and provide a report to management and Council on progress and recommended changes to the implementation plan annually.

Evaluation

- An evaluation will occur as part of the five-yearly review of the DAIP.
- The Community, Staff and Elected Members will be consulted as per the endorsed consultation strategies, as part of any evaluation.

Reporting on the DAIP

The Disability Services Act (1993) requires the Shire to report on the implementation of its DAIP in its annual report outlining:

- progress towards the desired outcomes of its DAIP;
- progress of its agents and contractors towards meeting the seven desired outcomes; and
- the strategies used to inform agents and contractors of its DAIP.

The Shire is also required to report on progress in the prescribed format to the Department of Communities by July 31 each year.

DAIPs and Local Government

Ideally, DAIPs should be encompassed as part of an overall planning process, as this leads to high quality outcomes for the whole community, including people with disability, their families and carers.

The following principles have been identified in the Disability Discrimination Act – A Guide to Best Practice in Local Government as the basis for improving the quality of local government at the local level:

- Focusing on integration, rather than division, of people, departments, programs and activities, councils and agencies and the three levels of government (local, state, federal).
- The provision of a systematic approach to improving the well-being of communities while acknowledging the diversity within and between those communities;
- The development of a shared understanding of the key issues amongst all those concerned with the aim of building a shared vision for future directions.

Good planning measures involves responding to local needs and issues in a planned and integrated manner. Access and inclusion for people with disability needs to be recognised as the responsibility of all areas of Local government and is addressed as such.

Integration of Plans

The Shire of Williams has taken steps to integrate its Disability Access and Inclusion Plan (DAIP) into broader local government planning and operational frameworks. This ensures access and inclusion principles are not treated in isolation, but are embedded across all areas of service delivery, governance, and infrastructure development.

Strategic and Corporate Planning

The DAIP is aligned with the Shire's Strategic Community Plan and Corporate Business Plan, helping guide decision-making and resource allocation. Objectives from the DAIP are incorporated into the Shire's annual budget and corporate performance measures.

Asset and Infrastructure Planning

Accessibility requirements outlined in the DAIP are considered in asset management planning, including for footpaths, buildings, public toilets, and recreational facilities. Capital works projects (e.g. Lions Park, kerbing upgrades) are scoped with universal design principles.

Policy and Service Development

The DAIP influences the development of Shire policies (e.g. community engagement, facility use, procurement), ensuring they address equitable access. Staff training and service standards include DAIP-aligned customer service protocols to ensure equal treatment and communication support.

Planning and Development Assessments

Town planning schemes and development applications are reviewed with regard to accessibility standards (e.g. ramps, parking, signage).

Community Engagement and Consultation

Public consultation processes include accessible formats and venues, enabling people with disability to contribute to Shire decisions. The Shire's communication strategies incorporate easy-read options, large print, and alternative formats when requested.

Workforce and Employment

The DAIP objectives are reflected in the Shire's Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) Management Plan, supporting inclusive hiring and staff development. Internal recruitment, workplace design, and induction processes are shaped by access and inclusion considerations.

Monitoring and Reporting

Annual progress reports are submitted to the WA Department of Communities – Disability Services, detailing DAIP implementation.

STRATEGIES TO IMPROVE ACCESS AND INCLUSION

The following overarching strategies have been developed to address each of the seven (7) desired outcome areas of the Disability Services Act (1993) from feedback gained in the consultation process. These will form the basis of the Implementation Plan.

Outcome 1 – Services and Events

People with disability have the same opportunities as other people to access the services of, and any events organised by the Shire of Williams.

Strategy	Timeline
Ensure that people with disability are consulted on their needs for services and the accessibility of current services.	As needed
Monitor Shire services to ensure equitable access and inclusion for all.	Ongoing
Develop the links between the DAIP and other Shire plans and strategies.	Ongoing
Ensure that events, whether organised or funded, are accessible to people with disability. Use of, or reference to, the Accessible Events Guide is encouraged.	As needed

People with disability may have trouble in gaining access to a range of mainstream services provided by State and Local government due to physical barriers or lack of accessible information. Even if a service is physically accessible, people with disability may be excluded because of the way that the service is delivered. They may also be excluded by unclear policies and procedures.

It is important that Local governments have policies that ensure the needs of people with disability are taken into account in the planning and provision of their services. When implementing such policies, Local governments will need to consider the accessibility of all their existing functions.

Whilst there has been no indication to date that people with disability have found any of the Shire of Williams' services to be exclusive or impede people with disability, it still needs to be taken into consideration when reviewing various policies and procedures. By evaluating and adapting their services, Local governments can greatly enhance opportunities for people with disability to participate fully in the everyday life of their local community.

Local governments can also act as a valuable catalyst within the community by working in partnership with local businesses, clubs and community organisations to encourage better access in the wider community.

Achievements reported:

- The Shire of Williams continuously reviews our local parks and pathways to services and amenities to ensure they are easily accessible and meet the needs of all people. In May 2025, the solar lights in the Lions Park were reassessed and replaced as the battery life was expiring and the lighting was no longer providing adequate for pathways.
- The Shire of Williams regularly reviews the footpaths around the townsite. With assistance from the WABN funding, a section of footpath along the Albany Highway was reconstructed from paving to concrete allowing for ease of access for wheelchairs, strollers and all other users .

Outcome 2 – Buildings and Facilities

People with disability have the same opportunities as other people to access the buildings and other facilities of the Shire of Williams.

Strategy	Timeline
Ensure that all public buildings and facilities meet the standards for access and any demonstrated additional need.	Ongoing
Ensure that all new or redevelopment works provide access to people with disability, where practicable.	Ongoing
Ensure that ACROD parking meets the needs of people with disability in terms of quantity and location.	Ongoing
Advocate to local businesses and tourist venues the requirements for and benefits flowing from the provision of accessible venues.	Ongoing
Planning for access needs for the Williams Lions Park	Ongoing
Ensure that all recreational areas are accessible.	Ongoing

The provision of appropriate access not only benefits people with disability but also seniors, people with temporary disability and parents with young children in prams. When access requirements are considered early in the planning stage of any new development, they can often be incorporated at very little additional expense.

Further to this, the vicinity around the facility needed equitable access needs to facilitate and encourage access as well. People with disability can experience difficulties due to the location of facilities, buildings and services. Signage needs to be appropriate in location, visibility and easy to recognise and understand. Clear symbols and directions can assist people to find their way. The Disability Service Commission has information on Access on its website (www.dsc.wa.gov.au).

The increasing community recognition of the importance of providing access to public buildings and facilities is reflected in a variety of legislation, standards and codes that relate to the provision of access.

It is essential that the design brief for the construction of any new public buildings or facilities specifically addresses access provision requirements.

Much progress has already been made by Local governments in general to improve access for people with disability. But as always, there is always a great deal more that can be achieved by Local governments to improve access for people with disability, firstly by ensuring a standard of excellence in their own facilities and secondly by doing what they can to increase awareness amongst private developers about access needs where required.

Achievements Reported

- All public buildings and facilities meet the standards for access as identified. Any new buildings or facilities are planned to provide access for people with disability where practicable.
- With the re-construction of Brooking Street, additional ACROD parking bays were marked out in the parking area in directly in front of the store and on the opposite side of the road in front of the Hall / Ablutions.
- The Shire continuously advocates to local businesses to ensure that they consider access for people with disability where possible. Recreational areas are accessible as appropriate.

Outcome 3 - Information

People with disability receive information from the Shire of Williams in a format that will enable them to access the information as readily as other people are able to access it.

Strategy	Timeline
Improve staff awareness of accessible information needs and how to provide information in other formats.	Ongoing
Ensure that the Shire's website meets contemporary good practice.	Ongoing
Ensuring that information on the Shire's website is available in an alternative format upon request.	Ongoing

Giving and receiving information is a critical aspect of our daily lives. People with disability frequently report frustration at the difficulties they experience in gaining access to all types of public information.

Communication difficulties are noted and associated with some disabilities, including hearing loss, deafness, low vision and blindness. Disability that affect an individual's ability to learn or think, such as an intellectual disability or psychiatric illness can also cause communication difficulties.

Local governments produce a variety of written material such as community handbooks, directories, notices and newsletters as well as information relating to Council meetings. Many communication difficulties can be overcome by providing information in simple, clearly written English and in a print size that is easy to read.

Technology is providing new communication opportunities for people with disability and it is important to keep up with these advances. Providing information by email or having it available in an accessible format on the Local government's website is a particularly valuable tool for the provision of information: people who have difficulties with mobility, vision, hearing and communication may use a well-designed website to obtain all kinds of information.

Achievements Reported:

- Employees are aware of accessible information needs and how to provide this as required and on request.
- Information on the Shire's website can be provided in an alternative format on request, however such a request is yet to be made, so has not been evaluated for effectiveness.
- The childcare centre has reviewed its policies and parent handbook to include interpreter options and other language barrier solutions.

Outcome 4 – Service Quality

People with disability receive the same level and quality of service from the employees of the Shire of Williams as other people receive.

Strategy	Timeline
Ensure that all employees, existing and new, and Elected Members are aware of disability and access issues and have the skills to provide appropriate services.	Ongoing
Offer opportunities for training to those employees who deal direct with the public.	As required
Improve community awareness about disability and access issues.	Ongoing

People with disability have the right to be treated like any other member of the community.

Sometimes a lack of understanding and awareness can lead to talking to an adult person with a disability as if he/she were a child, or speaking to the carer of a person with a disability as if the person with the disability were not there. It can also result in staff tending to shout at people who have a hearing impairment or who are deaf, when it would be more helpful to face the person and speak clearly and slowly in a normal voice or, if the person prefers, write instead.

Disability awareness training has been shown to improve the confidence of staff and competence in subsequent dealings with people with disability. This training should include information about the nature of the most common types of disability combined with practical hints on how to communicate most effectively.

Achievement reported:

- All employees and Elected Members are aware of disability access issues and have the skills to provide appropriate services to meet needs as required. Training is offered on an as needs basis to staff and Elected Members. Community awareness is raised as needed.

Outcome 5 - Complaints

People with disability have the same opportunities as other people to make complaints to the Shire of Williams.

Strategy	Timeline
Ensure that grievance mechanisms are accessible for people with disability and are acted upon in a timely manner.	Ongoing

As Local governments provide services to the public it is vital that people with disability have opportunities to raise concerns or make complaints about any aspects of their services.

It can be difficult for people with disability to make complaints. Information about how to make a complaint may be in a format that is inaccessible, and the processes themselves may create barriers, for example requiring all complaints to be in writing.

Local governments have made complaints more accessible for people with disability in the following ways:

- Producing a plain English pamphlet explaining the complaints procedure; and
- Having complaints processes accessible online.

Achievement reported:

- Any feedback the Shire receives from the community is very quickly rectified. The Shire regularly checks the Facebook and email accounts and we take any reviews or feedback seriously and do our best to amend and rectify as quickly as possible

Outcome 6 - Consultation

People with disability have the same opportunities as other people to participate in any public consultation by the Shire of Williams.

Strategy	Timeline
Ensure that people with disability are actively consulted about the DAIP and any other significant planning processes.	As required
Ensure that people with disability are aware of, and can access, other established consultative processes.	As required
Offering alternative ways people can provide input into community consultation, including via online means.	As required
The provision of Auslan interpreters should the need arise	As required

As Local governments provide services to the public it is vital that people with disability have opportunities to participate in their decision-making processes. This is in accordance with the planning processes outlined in the Local Government Act.

Many Local governments have, over the years, successfully involved people with disability particularly when planning their services to ensure access.

A systematic approach to ensuring the needs of people with disability is most effective. It ensures that people with disability and their advocates have opportunities to fully participate in all of the Local Government's activities such as attendance at meetings, public consultations or participating in Council elections.

Achievements Reported:

- The Shire consults with people with disability about the DAIP where required. People with disability, as with all people, are actively encouraged to participate in established consultative processes.
- Input into community consultations is always via many different means, including online (e.g.: Survey Monkey).
- The provisions of 'Auslan' interpreters is available on request, however is as yet untested as the need has not arisen.

Outcome 7 - Employment

People with disability have the same opportunities as other people to obtain and maintain employment with the Shire of Williams.

Strategy	Timeline
Use inclusive recruitment practices	Ongoing
Improve methods of attracting, recruiting and retaining people with disability	Ongoing
Work with key disability employment support provider(s) to employ a person with a disability.	As required

Meaningful employment is essential to an individual's economic security and is important to achieving social inclusion and independence. Employment contributes to physical and mental health, personal wellbeing and a sense of identity.

Finding employment is something that many people take for granted. For people with disability, finding, securing and retaining employment can be challenging. People with disability are often overlooked by employers for a variety of reasons and are only half as likely to be employed as people without disability.

Improved employment opportunities for people with disability can be facilitated by:

Use of inclusive recruitment practices:

- Making sure job advertisements are in an accessible format (12 or 14pt, Arial)
- Inclusion of an Equal Opportunity statement in the job advertisement. For example: "The Shire of Williams promotes a workplace that actively seeks to include, welcome and value unique contributions of all people. The Shire of Williams encourages people with disability, Aboriginal Australians, young people and people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds to apply".
- Making sure that the interview is held in an accessible venue (check with interview candidates when inviting them for interview).

Looking at way of improving how to attract, recruit and retain people with disability:

- Being flexible with job descriptions
- Breaking down the skills and tasks required
- Offering working from home as an alternative
- Flexible working hours

Working with Disability Employment Service (DES) providers:

- DES providers can promote vacancies
- Advise what constitutes reasonable adjustment
- Provide initial assistance in the workplace if required
- Give information about financial incentives
- Offer training and support for management staff as required
